Tuscania Torpedoed and About 200 Are Lost Was Heavily Loaded With American Soldiers

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Dr. Garfield holds out the hope that not more than one more blue Monday will be necessary.

Americans are holding the Lorraine front in a rain of both water and bullets.

For a crowded troop ship to go down with a loss of only about four per cent is something remarkable.

Maryland has followed Mississippi and Kentucky in ratifying the dry amendment.

Mr. Hoover rules that if pies are made every day out of mixed flour substitutes, they may be served by hotels on wheatless days also.

The list of 100 white registrants in class 1, summoned for next Wednesday, was completed yesterday, but the Kentuckian was not furnished with the list in time for this issue.

After studying the photograph of the 22,000 beauties, Miss Frances Jordan of the "Jack O'Lantern" company was selected by the War Department for the poster to be used in its publicity campaign.

Remember the Tri-weekly Kentuckian will be sent free to subscribers who pay a year for the daily in advance. In other words we will start your subscription with the daily, but put you on at once.

The machinery for the Daily Kentuckian is still somewhere between here and New York, having been on the road for more than two weeks. There is another enforced delay in starting. We are looking for the shipment every day and all plans are completed for starting as soon as the machinery is installed.

Right on the heels of a silly lie published in Mexican papers that the United States was planning an armed invasion into Mexico, comes the news that Carranza has sent his congratulations and good wishes to the German Kaiser. This is the same Carranza who was given recognition by the American government, upon his professions of friendship. It begins to look like we are going to have use for our colored troops after all. We may have to send them down to lick Mexico.

FOLLOWING THE FLAG.

Jack Rollow, the young son of Dr. S. J. Rollow, of Edgerton, left this week for Wilmington, N. C., and enlisted in the coast artillery. He is 19 years of age and left school at Springfield, Tenn., in order to enlist.

Dr. Stanley Stroube has been assigned to the regular army and is stationed at Tacoma, Wash., Mrs. Stroube joined him there this week. She was Miss Sarah Rollow, of Edgerton. They were married in November.

Miss Grace Baldwin, a pupil of Bethel Woman's College from Kuttawa, Ky., has been advised of the safe arrival of her brother in Liverpool, England. He is a soldier in the expeditionary army.

Hudson McReynolds has received his papers as a qualified pilot in the aviation service and is at home waiting to be ordered to report. This will be delayed, while he is recovering from a recent operation for appendicitis.

Dr. Randolph Dade has received a message ordering him to report Feb. 16 at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., for medical corps service at the officers' training camp.

MEETING OF SURGEONS

Specialists Called in When Inflammation Spreads Into the Internal Ear.

New York, Feb. 8.—It was announced last night in explaining the arrival of three physicians attending Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, that the inflammation from the abscess in the colonel's left ear had entered his internal ear. After a consultation the physicians decided that no further operation at present was necessary, although it was stated that the colonel's condition "is serious."

The following statement was issued by the colonel's private secretary:

"Colonel Roosevelt had an abscess in both ears, which were operated on yesterday afternoon. The colonel passed a comfortable night, but this morning inflammation had developed from his left ear into his internal ear. This afternoon it was found advisable to call in Dr. Gorham Bacon and Dr. Fred Whiting, eye and ear specialists, who went into consultation with Dr. Duell, another eye and ear specialist, who performed the operation yesterday, and also Dr. Walton Martin, the surgeon attending Colonel Roosevelt. In their opinion no further operations were necessary at present. While his condition is serious, nothing more is to be done than careful observation for the present."

First Baptist Church Adopts Patriotic Resolutions at Business Meeting.

The following resolutions were adopted Wednesday night at a business meeting of the First Baptist church, and offered to the Kentuckian for publication:

"Whereas our country is engaged in war against the Imperial German Government, one of the most ambitious, brutal and ruthless despots the world has ever known, a government guilty of the most atrocious crimes against civilization and humanity, therefore be it resolved:

"1.—That we, as members of the First Baptist Church, of Hopkinsville, Kentucky, pledge to the President and Government of these United States, our sympathies and prayers, our loyal support, our fortunes, our lives, our sacred honor, our all, for the vigorous prosecution of this war in behalf of Democracy and Humanity; "That we will cheerfully and liberally contribute to the physical and spiritual well being of our brave boys in khaki;

"That we deplore and censure any criticism that would lead to a lukewarm support of the President in his war aims or weaken any effort of the Y. M. C. A., the Red Cross, or any other agency to contribute to the comfort and well being of the men who are going to the front."

BRITISH DESTROYER AVENGED ATTACK ON THE SPOT

Says U. S. Officer—Depth Bomb Was Dropped As The U-Boat Submerged and It Is Believed Sea Huns Will Never Return to Port.

SECRETARY BAKER INDICTS ARCH-SAVAGE

Souls Will Be Welded Together in Sympathy for the Families of Stricken—and With Firm Determination to Strike Back.

American soldiers to the number of 101 are believed to have been lost in the sinking of the British liner Tuscania, torpedoed off the Irish coast by a German submarine. Of 2,179 American troops on board, 2,078 officers and men have been accounted for as survivors, according to British Admiralty dispatches.

Early reports led to fears that 1,000 men might have been lost, but official dispatches to Washington raised the number of saved among the troops to more than 2,000, and the later British official advices still further increased the total.

All told, it appears from the official reports there were 2,397 persons on board the Tuscania, including the crew. Of these the total rescued is given as 2,196 including 141 of the crew, three passengers and thirty-two persons specified in the reports, making the total loss of life so far as is known 200.

The Tuscania was conveyed by British warships, and undoubtedly their aid was prompt. Survivors have been landed at two points on the northern coast of Ireland. The troops on board the Tuscania were largely former National Guardsmen from Michigan and Wisconsin. Three aero squadrons and engineer and replacement detachments also were on board.

The Tuscania, of 14,348 tons, was the first ship carrying American troops to be sunk by submarines, although the transport Antil was torpedoed with the loss of 170 persons last October while returning to the United States.

A German submarine also has sunk the American freighter Alamance, of 3,000 tons. The freighter went down off the English coast with the loss of six men. All the Americans on board, including the gun crew, were saved.

The troops aboard the Tuscania were mainly former Michigan and Wisconsin National Guardsmen now attached to the 32d Division, trained at Camp McArthur, Tex. Several aero squadrons and several companies of the 20th Engineers, a forestry regiment, were aboard. The list of units as made public by the Adjutant General's office last night is as follows:

State Prison Burned

Jeffersonville, Feb. 6.—Five of thirteen buildings in a group comprising the Indiana state reformatory were destroyed by fire here early today. The loss is estimated at a million. Twelve hundred and eighty-five prisoners were removed in safety and without trouble. The blaze originated in the chair factory and is believed due to crossed electric wires.

Private Peat lectured on his experiences in the trenches in Louisville last night.

LIST OF UNITS.

Headquarters detachment and companies D, E and F, of the 20th Engineers.

107th engineer train.
107th military police.
107th snappy train.
Number 100 aero squadron.

158 aero squadron.
123th aero squadron.
Replacement detachments Nos. 1 and 2 of the 32d Division.
Fifty-one casual officers.

The 107th Engineers was composed of the 1st Battalion of Michigan Engineers and the 1st Battalion of Wisconsin Engineers; the 107th Military Police was made up from the 4th and 6th Wisconsin infantry and the 107th Supply Train from the 4th, 5th and 6th Wisconsin Infantry.

The 20th Engineers, a forestry regiment, and the aero squadrons probably were recruited from various sections and the place they trained was not mentioned by the War Department.

President Wilson, who was attending the theater when the news of the sinking was received, Secretary Baker and many other officials remained up late for more details, but only the terse War and State Department messages came through until the list of survivors began to arrive from the American Army Headquarters in London early to-day.

AMBASSADOR SENDS AID.

The State Department's message said Ambassador had sent two army officers to Belfast and Representatives of the American Red Cross and the Y. M. C. A. had gone with full power to spend all the money needed in relief.

Although the American transport Antilles was torpedoed and sunk in the war zone, while returning from France and fourteen soldiers and 156 others were lost, the Tuscania is the first ship carrying American troops to Europe to be sunk by a submarine. American warships, conveying transports last June, twice fought off submarine attacks and since then there have been no reports of attacks on ships carrying American troops to France.

J. J. Kimmel, assistant cashier of the Kentucky Title & Trust Co., committed suicide in Louisville when his books were examined. His shortage of $10,000 or $12,000 is covered by a bond.

In Much Talked of Big Push On Western Front Ready To Begin.

As indicating the chaotic situation in Russia under the bolshevik rule, a Petrograd advice reaching London says that looting occurred Tuesday and Wednesday in the Russian capital, when wine cellars were sacked by mobs. The authorities used armoree cars to oppose the pillagers, many of whom were killed or wounded.

Operations on the western front continue to be marked by heavy artillery exchanges in conjunction with raiding attacks on the opposing trenches. Paris reports active cannonades on the Aisne and Verdun fronts and in Alsace and a half dozen forays of the Germans were repulsed in which the enemy lost material and men. According to Berlin the Germans captured prisoners in a raid in Flanders and a French attack in the Champagne broke down.

Rome reports slight artillery activity on all the Italian front but that hostile aircraft Wednesday morning renewed their bombardment of Italian towns. The number of enemy machines brought down by the entente airmen on the Italian front from Jan. 29 to Feb. 6, was fifty-six.

SCIENCE OF ARCHAEOLOGY

Subject of Paper at Athenaeum Thursday Night—Twenty Present.

Only one paper was presented at the Athenaeum Thursday night but the meeting was one of the best held this season. W. O. Soyars, the society's youngest member, wrote on "Ancient Types of Primitive Man." He dived deep into the science of archaeology and reported the various skeletons or parts of skeletons that are in the museums of the world. The article was intensely interesting and such parts as necessarily came in conflict with the Bible story of the origin of man 6,000 years ago, were vigorously attacked by several members and as vigorously defended by others who accepted facts in geology. The discussion was animated, profound and far-reaching and the meeting lasted until nearly 11 o'clock. Mr. Soyars was highly complimented on his maiden effort, which started one of the liveliest discussions in years. In his concluding speech he disclaimed any attack on religion, but said he presented scientific facts without expression of his own opinions.

Those present were: President A. H. Eckles, H. W. Linton, T. C. Underwood, Lewis Powell, C. M. Thompson, L. E. Foster, J. W. Downer, C. E. Woodruff, Ira L. Smith, R. L. Woodard, J. A. McKenzie, Pettus White, W. O. Soyars, Geo. E. Gary, G. C. Koffman, T. W. Perkins, L. H. Davis, S. Y. Trimble, Austin Bell, Chas. M. Meacham.

Dr. Henry L. Wells, of Cambridge, Ohio, who had been the guest of his sister Mrs. O. F. Miller, 1102 Virginia street for several days past, returned home Friday.

44 BODIES WERE WASHED ASHORE

An Irish Port, Feb. 8.—The bodies of 44 of the missing 101 victims of the Tuscania disaster were washed up today on the rocks, fifteen miles from the scene of the torpedoing. All were Americans and their bodies were mutilated beyond recognition.

A pathetic feature is that although all the victims wore tags, no identification numbers had been put on them because these Americans had not as yet been assigned to definite army units. Therefore there is no way to identify them and they will be buried in one grave.

Among the American survivors are 76 officers.

The Tuscania, a liner of 14,348 gross tons, was one of the strongly guarded convoy and was proceeding eastward off the north coast of Ireland, when disaster overtook her Tuesday. The shore line was visible from the starboard side through the dusk of oncoming night, and it was from this direction that the lurking German submarine discharged a torpedo that found its mark in the boiler room of the steamer. A second torpedo was sent to pass astern.

Apparently retribution at once befell the enemy underwater boat. According to the testimony of an American officer who was one of the last men to leave the Tuscania, a British destroyer dashed toward the evident location of the attacker and dropped death bombs that resulted, in the expressive phrase of the submarine hunters, "in the enemy being done in."

NO PANIC ON STRICKEN SHIP.

The explosion of the torpedo had caused a tremendous list and made the launching of small boat hazardous in the darkness. There was no panic and the stricken liner remained afloat for fully two hours. Many patrol boats assisted the destroyer in the work of rescue and the survivors were landed at various Irish and Scotch ports, where prompt medical attention was given the injured and the others were made comfortable.

Proof of the order which prevailed on the Tuscania is given in the landing of two typhoid and two pneumonia cases without bad effect. Three men from the Tuscania died from exposure in one boat.

FRESH CHALLENGE.

Washington, Feb. 8.—Secretary Baker issued the following on the torpedoing of the Tuscania:

"This brings us face to face with the losses of the war in its most relentless form. It is a fresh challenge to the civilized world by an adversary who has resumed and has made more of the deadly stealth of the savage in warfare. We must and will win this war. Losses like this unite us to make us more determined."

Revised figures put the number of dead at about 200.

Death Of Thomas Tandy.

Thomas J. Tandy died at his home near Pembroke Tuesday, of pneumonia. He was 87 years old and a citizen held in high esteem by everyone who knew him. His wife survives. The interment took place at Pembroke Wednesday.

Not So Fierce.

The class had been studying about the house fly, says Good Health, and the teacher had made much of the danger with which the germ-carrying habits of the insect threaten the pub-

the mind of little George, who later was asked to write a composition on the subject. "The fly is a insect," he wrote with difficulty; "he has six legs, he is more dangerous than a lion, but I had rather a fly would bite me than a lion."

The Problem

By Ella Charlotte Hammond

(Copyright, 1917, Western Newspaper Union.)

For six hours Eustace Warde had crouched in the long grass and shrubbery surrounding a pretty bungalow, moving from spot to spot cautiously, furtively. He was bent on a special mission, whose issues were vital and he dared not take any risk as to being discovered and defeated in his design.

"The sister was right," he soliloquized, feeling that he was handling a hard problem. "I haven't caught even a fleeting glimpse of the girl. She must be in the house, though, and, just as she wrote her sister, the place is guarded."

This latter fact was evident. Seated knitting in a rocking chair in the garden so as to command a perfect view of all the entrances and exits of the house, was a portly, keen-eyed woman who swept the prospect with a probing glance every other minute. On the other side of the house, reclining on the grass, a gun by his side, was a man past middle age, apparently the husband of the other watcher.

"He doesn't look as smart and vigilant as the woman," decided Warde.
"Twice he has nodded. Ah! he is gone now. Dare I venture a rush for the house?"

Warde could distinctly catch the sound of muffled snoring. The man lay perfectly still, his face buried in his arm. Across a 40-foot space Warde glided. He darted through a doorway to find himself in a narrow hall. Then beyond its other end he made out a graceful feminine figure.

"Miss Alice Boyden?" he spoke in a low tone, and as he extended an envelope toward the amazed girl he added quickly: "From your sister at Melville."

The hands of Alice Boyden trembled as she opened the letter and hurriedly perused its inclosure. She was at once aroused to manifest animation and excitement. The young man pressed close to her side.

"Beyond the grove yonder," he said,
"I have a horse and buggy. Don't delay. The man outside is asleep, the woman is on the other side of the house and cannot observe your escape.
Come."

His frank, open face pleased her. Besides, did he not come from her sister, Lucia, and under the directions of Lucia's husband, who was a lawyer?
And was she not practically a prisoner, surrounded she knew not by what sordid plots and plotters?

Her father had died leaving a fairly large estate. His half-brother, Hugo Blair, dominated the town. Through one of his creatures, a judge, Blair had been appointed guardian of Alice and had been given arbitrary charge of the estate. He did not intend that the rich pickings should escape his clutches.

In a vast flurry Alice followed the directions of her helper and guide. A great sigh of relief escaped her lips as they passed the sleeping sentinel in safety. They reached the grove. The color came back to that fair face, her shining eyes expressed her deep gratitude as the horse started up.

Warde took a lonely road, but they were seen by quite a number of persons, and he urged the mettled steed to his best pace, fearing pursuit. It was just at dusk when they reached the end of the one traversed road in that wild district. Beyond it spread a 20-mile stretch of prairie, smooth as a floor. Twenty different trails had been broken through the high pampas grass.
The horse was tired and Warde allowed him to rest. Then they resumed their journey.

"Look!" exclaimed Alice, an hour later.

Perhaps two miles distant, and seemingly directly on their trail, was an automobile. Its rapid puffing echoed faintly, but its lights flared like evil eyes probing to locate the refugees.

"It is Mr. Blair's machine!" fluttered Alice in terror. "He will overtake us.
Oh, do not delay! Let us hurry forward."

Warde had halted the horse. Now he ran back about a hundred yards.
He flared a dozen matches. He set the grass blazing in a dozen places. Then he leaped into the buggy and urged up the horse. He knew that the automobile would not dare dash into the advancing mass of flame, nor traverse the burned-over route where a spark might precipitate an explosion.

Warde was right. They reached Melville in safety. At once Alice was hurried to another town and placed in charge of a lady friend, and the lawyer prepared to legally dispute the jurisdiction of the scheming half-uncle.
He called upon Alice a few days later.

"I don't know what the result may be in the courts," he told Alice gravely. "It is a pity there is not some favored young man who could give you his name and his love. That would completely baffle Hugo Blair."

Alice blushed, and perhaps with reason. She had not ceased to think of the clever and self-possessed young man who had rescued her from the enemy. Craftily or incidentally, the lawyer sent Warde with a message one day. The wily lawyer smiled to himself as he noted the happy light in his young partner's eyes upon his return.

"I fancy the problem will soon be solved," he told his wife, and it was, for when Hugo Blair came upon the scene with all kinds of dreadful legal documents, he found it of no avail, for he had to deal with Alice's husband this time.

KEPT HER AWAKE

The Terrible Pains in Back and Sides. Cardui Gave Relief.

Marksville, La.—Mrs. Alice Johnson, of this place, writes: "For one year I suffered with an awful misery in my back and sides. My left side was hurting me all the time. The misery was something awful."

I could not do anything, not even sleep at night. It kept me awake most of the night. I took different medicines, but nothing did me any good or relieved me until I took Cardui.

I was not able to do any of my work for one year and I got worse all the time, was confined to my bed off and on. I got so bad with my back that when I stooped down I was not able to straighten up again. I decided I would try Cardui.

By time I had taken the entire bottle
I was feeling pretty good and could straighten up and my pains were nearly all gone.

I shall always praise Cardui. I continued taking it until I was strong and well. If you suffer from pains due to female complaints, Cardui may be just what you need. Thousands of women who once suffered in this way now praise
Cardui for their present good health.

HAVE HEARD COUNTRY'S CALL

Ten Sons of Members of President Wilson's Cabinet Are Now Serving With the Colors.

The members of President Wilson's cabinet have sent their sons to fight the country's battles side by side with the sons of fathers in less exalted station. Ten sons of cabinet members are now with the colors.
Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo and Secretary of Labor Wilson head the list with three sons each in the service. The McAdoo boys have gone into the navy, the Wilson boys into the army.

Josephus Daniels, Jr., son of the secretary of the navy, is a private in the marine corps, and is now undergoing training for a commission at the League Island navy yard, Philadelphia. Franklin K. Lane, Jr., son of the secretary of the interior, is a first lieutenant in the army aviation corps. David Franklin Houston, Jr., son of the secretary of agriculture, took the course at Annapolis, and is now an ensign in the navy. Humphrey F. Redfield, son of the secretary of commerce, is also in the navy.
William B. Wilson, Jr., son of the secretary of labor, has been attending the second army officers' training camp at Fort Niagara, N. Y. Joseph B. Wilson is a lieutenant of infantry in the National army at Camp Meade, Md., while James H. Wilson is a corporal of field artillery, now in training at Anniston, Ala.

AVIATORS' LINGO.

The air service, like most special branches, has its own vocabulary, for some of which we are indebted to Everybody's Magazine.

"An officer of flying status, but who for some reason does not fly, is called a 'penguin.' This name is also applied to a type of trailing machine which does not rise from the ground.
An officer in the flying service without flying status is called a 'kiwi' after an Australian bird. A pilot is generally called a 'quirk.' A flight is called a 'flip,' and if it is a distinguished failure it is called a 'washout.' An airplane is usually called a 'bus.' The great hope of the airman is to 'spikebozzle' or bring down a 'Zepp,' or one of the smaller non-rigid dirigibles they call 'blimps.'
The airman's pest is the 'onion' or large flaming anti-aircraft shell which 'Archie' sends up as a sort of bouquet—with sometimes an unpleasant smell. 'Archie' is the general name for the anti-aircraft gun."

RATTLING AROUND.

there?

Second Rattlesnake—Why?

THE MODERN WAY.

"Times have changed."
"In what way?"
"I can remember when the firm used to fire a man; now it asks for his resignation."

The Very Latest Styles

It's an old, old saying that the people you write to often judge you by your stationery.

And there is a great deal of truth in the fact that stationery can be so chosen as to reflect the best of judgment and taste.

Stationery suitable for one occasion may be entirely out of place for another. Then, too, the styles in stationery change the same as styles in clothing.

To be sure that your stationery is right for all purposes, always buy it here.

"YOUR MONEY"

Will help destroy wickedness in high places. An enemy who knows not neither pity nor mercy nor purity nor innocence. An enemy against FLESH and BLOOD.

"YOUR MONEY"

WILL CAUSE SWORDS TO BE BEATEN INTO PLOW SHARES AND FUTURE GENERATIONS TO KNOW NOT WAR.

"YOUR MONEY"

WILL HELP TURN THE LAND WHICH IS NOW STAINED WITH THE BLOOD OF THE SONS OF THE ALLIES INTO FIELDS OF WAVING GRAIN.

No, These Soldiers Are Not Fighting For The Kaiser---

Is your money fighting for your Country--or is it fighting for the Kaiser?

They're not Boches, though at first glance one might be led to that belief. Really they are mighty efficient Teanimes, who man the power machine guns. They're a pretty good time wearing Tenthon speed helmets that formed part of the spoils they won from the Boches in a recent war.

Suppose every family in the United States spends a quarter a day for luxuries they could just [as well do without.

That amounts to $5,000,000 a day.

To manufacture, market, sell and deliver that $5,000,000 worth of luxuries, requires the labor of a great army of men who SHOULD be making arms, motor trucks, aeroplanes, ships, clothing, food and many other things our soldiers must have if they are to win the war.

Don't you see how these wasted quarters fight against our own soldiers---how they actually help the Kaiser?

Now suppose every family in the country SAVES a quarter a day and buys a United States Thrift Stamp with it.

That means $5,000,000 a day which the Government can and will use IMMEDIATELY to arm and equip our soldiers and sailors. Just think-- $5,000,000 will fully clothe and arm over 30,000 infantrymen!

Multiply $5,000,000 by 365 days in the year and you will see plainly enough that the war CANNOT BE WON if all that money is wasted---that the Kaiser CANNOT BE BEATEN unless we all fight him---fight him with every dollar, every quarter, every dime we can save.

Your country asks you this question: What are you going to do about it---will your money fight for Uncle Sam or for the Kaiser?

Go today to any bank, any post office, or any store where you see the W. S. S. (War Saving Stamps) sign displayed. For 25 cents you will receive a U. S. Thrift Stamp and a card to paste it on. The card has space for 16 stamps, or $4 worth. When it is full exchange it---with a few cents additional in cash---for a War Savings Stamp, for which the Government will pay you $5 January 1, 1923.

We Recommend These Stamps As a Feasible Method of Saving. Help Yourself and Your Country by Buying
Some Of These Stamps At Your Earliest Opportunity.

LAST QUOTA 1ST DRAFT CALLED

Movement of Increment to Begin Feb. 23 and Continue One Week.

Washington, Feb. 8.—Provost Marshal Gen. Crowder has announced that the movement of the last increments of men selected in the first draft will begin on February 23 and continue for a period of five days.

This will complete the operation of the first draft, as all states will have furnished their full quota.

The movement will bring the strength of the national army up to the 650,000 men contemplated in the first draft.

The numbers of men which will be started to the cantonments on February 23 are:

Camp Devens, Mass., 6,575; Upton, N. Y., 7,500; Dix, N. J., 7,000; Meade, Md., 6,090; Lee, Va., 3,000; Jackson, S. C., 3,383 (negroes); Gordon, Ga., 2,000 (negroes); Grant, Ill., 5,000; Taylor, Ky., 6,284; Dodge, Ia., 14,984; Funston, Kan., 2,332; Travers, Tex., 7,558; Pike, Ark., 2,000 (negroes).

Besides the regular portion contributory to Camp Devens and Upton, New York will send to the former 2,521 men and to the latter 4,287 men, which were to have gone to Camp Dix. The reason given for the change is that there is more room for them at Camp Devens and Upton.

West Virginia will send 1,520 men to Camp Meade instead of Camp Lee.

That there were Worths and Paquins in Ancient Babylon, and they didn't believe in concealing the physical charms of the woman beautiful any more than the Worths and Paquins of today, is evidenced in the Babylonian episode of D. W. Griffith's new spectacle "Intolerance."

One of the most celebrated historical objects in Paris is the old bell which hangs in the belfry of the beautiful church of St. Germain l'Auxerrois. It was this bell that tolled the signal for the massacre of the Huguenots in 1572 A. D. For the French episode of D. W. Griffith's new spectacle "Intolerance," a reproduction of this famous bell may be seen again sounding the tocsin for the victims of Catherine de Medici's heartless plotting.

Easter Comes March 31.

Lent, the season of fasting and prayer, will begin in two weeks, Ash Wednesday falling on February 13. There are forty days of the Lenten season, extending the time six weeks and a half, as the Sundays are included Catholics and Episcopalians are the only denominations that observe the penitential season, the former being stricter in their rules for this time.

After the six weeks of fasting comes the feast of Easter, which this year falls on March 31.

DOCTOR URGED AN OPERATION

Instead I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Was Cured.

Baltimore, Md.—"Nearly four years I suffered from organic troubles, nervousness and headaches and every month would have to stay in bed most of the time. Treatments would relieve me for a time but my doctor was always urging me to have an operation. My sister asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before consenting to an operation. I took five bottles of it and it has completely cured me and my work is a pleasure. I tell all my friends who have any trouble of this kind that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me."—NELLIE B. BRITTINGHAM, 609 Calverton Rd., Baltimore, Md.

AMERICAN WINS IN AIR BATTLE

Brings Down Crack German Aviator 10,000 Feet Above Lines.

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 8.—The shooting down of a crack German aviator in a duel far above the clouds by Francis Peabody Magoun, Jr., a Harvard graduate, now a second lieutenant in the Royal Flying corps, was described in a letter from him to his parents in this city. Magoun, who was graduated from Harvard in 1915, has been on active duty over the fighting lines in France only two months.

He was flying a scout plane Dec. 6, more than 10,000 feet above the lines, he wrote, when he encountered a German flier. It was the young American's first combat, but, jockeying for position, he suddenly out-manuevered his opponent and let go with his machine gun. The duelists were so near each other that Magoun said he could see clearly every feature of his opponent and could see him crumple up as the bullet struck him squarely in the forehead.

It developed later, Magoun wrote, that the German was one of the most noted of his corps, with a record of downing sixteen Allied planes.

In Honor of Mr. Gaither.

At a meeting of Ned Meriweather Camp No. 241, United Confederate Veterans, held at the office of Hunter Wood, Adjutant, on January 16th, 1918, the following resolutions were adopted:

Be It Resolved:
First: That in the death of our Comrade, Nat Gaither, we have lost a most lovable and gallant Comrade; the community a useful and honorable member; the State a high toned, capable and valuable citizen, and the Country a brave and patriotic soldier.

Second: That we, the comrades of our deceased brother, take this method of expressing our deepest sympathy for his bereaved family, and to express to them the high estimation and loving remembrance in which our Comrade is held, by reason of his fidelity and devotion and merits as a soldier in the service of his country, as well as on account of his high character as a citizen and christian gentleman.

Third: Be it recorded, that Nat Gaither was born in Trigg county, Kentucky, on November 26, 1844, and enlisted in the Confederate Army, October, 1862, in Company H, 6th Kentucky Cavalry as a private; General John Morgan's Brigade, and that he afterwards served in a Georgia Brigade. That he was captured in July, 1863, on a raid made by General John Morgan's command and that he escaped from prison in October 1863. That he was paroled on May 4, 1865, at Greensboro, North Carolina.

In 1868 he was elected clerk of the Christian Circuit Court, and filled the position for six years faithfully and efficiently. He afterwards practiced law for a short while. Then for a number of years was engaged in the tobacco business, and for years past he had been president of the Bank of Hopkinsville, and in each of these positions which he filled, and occupations in which he was engaged, he was known to everybody to be a man of strict integrity and a high sense of honor.

Fourth: That these resolutions be spread on the minute books of the Camp, and a copy sent to the family of our deceased Comrade, and to the local papers for publication.

HUNTER WOOD, SR. Adjutant.
W. P. WINFREE, Commander.

WHEAT-CORN YEAST BREAD.

Wheat-corn bread is more nutritious than bread baked with wheat flour alone. Thousands of American families today are using this mixed flour bread, and in so doing are enabling America to provide more wheat flour for the allies. Here's a tested recipe for this bread: Take one and a half cups of milk, water or a mixture of the two; one-half cake compressed yeast, one and a half teaspoons salt, one tablespoon sugar, one tablespoon of fat if desired, one cup cornmeal and two cups wheat flour.

Put one and a half cups of water, the cornmeal, salt, sugar and fat (if used) into a double boiler and cook twenty minutes. The water is sufficient only to soften the meal a little. Allow the meal to cool to about the temperature of the room and add the flour and yeast mixed with the rest of the water. Knead thoroughly, make into loaf, place in pan of standard size, allow to rise until nearly fills the pan and bake 45 or 50 minutes. It is hardly practicable to use a greater percentage of cornmeal than this even in emergencies, for bread so made differs very little from baked mush. Less cornmeal can be used and in such a case the general method given above may be followed.

It is possible to make a yeast raised corn bread without first cooking the cornmeal. In this case not more than one cupful of meal should be used to four cupfuls of flour. In other respects the bread is mixed and baked as in the above recipe.

How to Meet Trouble.

Rise above small things, says a woman writer. The woman who lets small things worry her will be completely undone the first time she meets with a really big problem. It is disintegrating to your mental and nervous condition, not to mention your physical condition, to worry. You need not be resigned to fate nor slip your troubles off as the old friend duck's back throws water. But you can meet troubles with a will to conquer them or adjust them—and, after that, "they should worry," but not you.

RAISE MORE POULTRY

Our meat supply is short and more poultry will help solve the problem. More poultry means more eggs and more eggs and poultry meat means a greater food supply. Poultry can be raised at lower cost and brought to maturity quicker than any other kind of live stock.

On Farms and in Back Yards

HOUSE the flock comfortably; keep houses dry and well ventilated, allowing plenty of fresh air and sunshine.

Remodel the old house—stop cracks and eliminate drafts.

Give hens a good straw litter to scratch in during the winter months.

EARLY hatched pullets produce more winter eggs and return the greatest profits. Early hatched chicks have the advantage of a longer and better growing season.

Hot weather retards the growth of young chicks.

NEVER allow the mother hen to range with the young chicks until they are at least two weeks old.

Enormous numbers of young chicks are lost each year by allowing them to run in the wet grass during their early life.

SHADE and range for chickens will give the best results. Hot sun retards growth. There should be trees, corn, sunflowers; etc., on the range to provide shade during the hot summer months.

Chickens on range pick up much of their food.

ELIMINATE the male bird at end of hatching season.

Fifteen million dollars is lost each year by allowing the rooster to run with hens during the summer months. Produce the infertile egg. Dispose of the male bird not later than June 1. Market a better quality of egg.

GREEN feed is excellent for poultry and can be substituted for a considerable amount of grain ration. Grow oats, vetch, and rape for summer use; cabbage and mangel beets for winter. Store cabbage and beets in a dry room or bury in a pit and cover with straw and earth.

GREATEST returns are procured by feeding sour milk or buttermilk to both young and old birds. Results in greater gains. Will require less grain. Produces more egg. Increases the profits.

Makes a home market for waste by-products.

SAVE eggs during April and May for winter use by preserving in waterglass. Mix 9 quarts of water, boiled and cooled, with 1 quart of waterglass. Will preserve 15 dozen eggs.

Place the solution in a 5-gallon jar. Store in cool place for winter use.

More Eggs and Poultry Will Save Beef and Pork

LIVES DEPEND ON QUICKNESS

Successful Attackers of Trench Must Work Like Beavers to Get Ready to Repel Foe.

The best thing an infantryman does is dig. He learns to dig quickly, to dig frantically but efficiently, for many times during a year in the trenches his shovel saves his life, and the ground he has won at the risk of his life. Popular Mechanics describes the work.

This is best illustrated in the case of a successful attack.

The fourth trench—the last to be taken—is where the real scene of activity ensues. One second wasted may mean 100 lives lost.

The reason for this rush is that it is now a maxim of the fighting on the western front that a counter-attack may reasonably be expected within five minutes after a set of trenches has been taken—certainly within ten. The enemy, in making a counter-attack, naturally hits first at the trench nearest him, which is the fourth one captured in the successful attack. Therefore, it is vitally necessary to face the parapet the other way, pile up the sandbags, piles and other obstructions for breastworks, throw up barbed wire and fasten it to a tangle of stakes if time allows, and generally transform what has been the enemy's fourth line of defense into a new first line trench ready to repel an attack.

The problem is a huge one.

GIVES HOME OVER TO BIRDS

Los Angeles Man Converts Bungalow Into a Shelter for His Feathered Friends.

James Henning of Los Angeles, Cal., likes birds so well and claims that his understanding of them is so much more perfect than it is of the ways of man, that he removed all the furniture from his bungalow at 1167 Leighton avenue to make room for a permanent home for over 1,000 members of the feathered tribe.

Birds of common and rare species, including parrots, free to fly and in cages today occupy every room in Henning's home with the exception of the kitchen. Porches, branches of trees and railings have replaced chairs, tables, bureaus and couches and where paintings hung birds' nests adorn the walls.

Henning retained just one piece of furniture—a small mahogany table for his pipe and tobacco, but his bed he gave up in favor of a hammock swung between folding doors connecting the two large rooms where most of his feathered friends are housed.

GOOD SUGGESTION.

Maj. Frederick Palmer, head of the military press bureau in Paris, was visited at his office in the Rue Ste. Anne the other day by an old friend.

The friend said from his cloud of tobacco smoke:

"Palmer, I want to do my—hic—bit. I want to be in at the finish of the Hun. I've got alcoholic sore throat, a tobacco heart and a hardened liver. It would be difficult for me, I'm afraid, to give up my soft habits and live in the cold mud of the trenches. Still, Palmer, I'm determined to do my bit. There's surely some billet I could fill with honor. Well, what—hic—is it?"

"George," said Major Palmer, "the only suggestion I can make is that you go to the front as a tank."

STATUS QUO ANTE BRICKBATS.

"Me name is Meginness," announced Pat, "and Oi'm ready to fight as long as there's breath left in me body."

"Yis," hissed Mike, "that's phwat you Meginnesses fought with."—Life.

NOT AS YET.

"The 'Village Blacksmith' is a classic."

"Well?"

"But so far the garage keeper hasn't inspired any sentimental poetry."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

IN AN EMERGENCY.

"Should one kiss a young man good-night?"

"If you can't get rid of him any other way I consider it permissible."

NEXT STEP.

"They've named the leading actress in the new play the Comet."

"I suppose next thing she will be going on a star route."

Among the many monuments to General Sherman, the one situated in Calvary Cemetery, St. Louis, is a most unique, compelling design. The very character of its architecture seems to emphasize the faithful and honorable spirit of this old warrior.

We believe in being faithful to a trust. We believe in being honorable in our dealings. We do a high-charactered work at a reasonable price.

How Does a Soldier Feel in a Life-and-Death Crisis?

He was caught—like a rat in a trap—with only one chance in a million of coming out alive. He thought of—

What does a soldier think of in a life-and-death crisis? How does he feel? What does he do? What is the millionth chance that he takes to escape?

While trembling and hot from the experiences they have gone through, over two hundred men—airmen, trench raiders, submarine commanders, grenade throwers—have told what they saw, heard and felt. To read these stories of personal adventure is to get an entirely new viewpoint of the war.

A Close-Up of the War

Newspapers and magazines treat the war along broad, general lines—they speak of nations and armies. But these stories tell you about the most daring, audacious and heroic deeds of MEN—individuals. They tell of exploits which even now you think never could happen. No professional author in the history of literature could tell such stories, for no man's imagination could think them up. Yet each of these stories is true—and so startling that the mind simply stands aghast at wonder. They would thrill a man with blood as cold as a fish.

"True Adventures of the Great War"

6 Volumes Free!

The Review of Reviews has collected these two hundred and more stories in six handsome volumes, containing altogether 1800 pages, profusely illustrated. Every one of these stories is absolutely genuine as to the facts related; every one of them is told in the words of the person who is the hero of the exploit, and now, for a limited time, you can secure these six volumes free, with a two-year subscription to the Review of Reviews.

Now, and during these next few years, as never before, every intelligent American will need the Review of Reviews. The world is on the verge. It is in the throes of social, industrial and political changes that are cataclysmic. One cannot form opinions on these revolutionary events, one cannot base his acts intelligently upon them—unless he understands the real war situation, unless the facts, all the facts, are known. It is genuine patriotic duty in these coming days of trial for every citizen to know comprehensively what is happening in the world around him.

Send No Money

The subscription to Review of Reviews is offered at the regular price. The six volumes described above will be given in addition, absolutely free. So that no one may act in the dark, the books will be sent first for examination, all charges prepaid, and if they do not come up to expectation, they may be returned within five days, and the subscription cancelled. Only the first edition of this set will be offered free with a two-year subscription. Immediate acceptance of this offer is, therefore, advised, if you are at all interested. Mail the coupon now.

GIVES COUNTRY NEEDED DYE

Osage Orange Just at This Time Is Serving the Nation Remarkably Well.

The osage orange is serving its country well. The wood of this tree is furnishing dye for khaki and olive-drab cloth. Scientists have long known that the humble but plentiful tree was capable of distinguished service, but few persons believed that it would give itself, or at least its yellow juices, to the military service.

When the dye shortage was felt in the United States soon after the beginning of the war, the statement was made on high scientific authority that the osage orange would produce one of the few natural dyes which might permanently compete with the aniline, colors, the manufacture and sale of which has been monopolized by the Germans. The dye of this wood is not an orange color, but a light yellow which can be made to yield several shades as desired.

The mock orange, though common in the vicinity of Washington, is most plentiful in those parts of the West where the settlers demanded a stout, thrifty, quick-growing hedge tree. The osage orange was equal to these requirements and was extensively planted in the form of windbreaks in the hitherto treeless regions and was also planted as hedges around the fields to serve the place of fencing.

The word "khaki" is of Hindustanee origin and signifies "dust color."

COULDN'T

"Bill Crow certainly is a brave bird."
"How's that?"
"Why, he's never yet shown the white feather."

BRANDED AS "BOURGEOIS."

Countess Panin, a genuine Russian liberal, a woman who had devoted not only her money but her own time and energy to welfare work among the working classes gave me the story of her own experience. Samuel N. Harper writes in the New York Independent. The workmen, and their wives also, came to her, very apologetic but firm in their explanations of why they must vote against her, because she was "bourgeois." I was somewhat confused by the use of the word "bourgeois" until I heard the definition of the term given by a cabman of Petrograd: "Why, a bourgeois is one who lived well under the old regime."

Demagogues exploited this idea and used it dishonestly. But despite this fact, the idea contained an element of truth and in any case represented a testing of the "right to enjoy the good things of this life." Thus many who had unselfishly and ardently worked for a new order in Russia, for a revolution, were brushed aside by the revolution. That is what happened to many of the zemstvo workers. For though they had worked against the old regime, they had worked under and through it and they had "lived well under the old regime."

EXCUSABLE OVERSIGHT.

"I saved a man's life yesterday."

"How did that happen?"

"I pulled him out of harm's way when he was just about to be run over by an automobile."

"I presume he thanked you effusively?"

"No. He was so busy telling the chauffeur what he thought of him he forgot to say what he thought of me."

DOTTIE'S THEORY.

Mrs. Eve (to caller)—Our neighbor, Mrs. Schmidt, has a new baby, another little girl—and she did so want a boy.

Little Dottie Eve—Mrs. Schmidt don't talk very good English, mamma, and I s'pose the angels couldn't understand what kind she wanted.—Boston Transcript.

Filed Against Dr. D. H. Erkiletian By James P. Martin.

Jas. P. Martin has filed in circuit court a suit for $10,000 damages against Dr. D. H. Erkiletian, alleging improper conduct towards his daughter, a young girl 14 years old, who has been employed in his office.

Dr. Erkiletian gave to the Kentuckian the following card:

"I feel that I owe it to myself and to my patrons in Christian Co., to state that the suit filed against me by James Martin, the father of Miss Martin, charging me with improper conduct, is entirely and absolutely without foundation and is untrue.

I have known this family for a number of years and have been frequently called to their home professionally. I have never treated any member of the family other than with the greatest courtesy, kindness and consideration. I am able to establish this beyond any sort of doubt."
